PLAN HEARINGS ON SERVICE CHARGES

CHAIRMAN PERRY TO CONSIDER SERIES OF CONFERENCES THROUGHOUT STATE.

Atlanta, Sept. 15.—James A. Perry, chairman of the Georgia Public Service Commission, today announced he will recommend Tuesday to the commission that a series of hearings be held here and in cities throughout the state on the service charges now the rates of most light and power and gas companies under the commission's jurisdiction.

Perry pointed out that "the service charge is just as much a part of the rate as the rate itself is." He said that in a consideration of the service charge "looking to its elimination the question of rates is involved." He said there is much misunderstanding of the charge.

"No matter what utility service cost is, the public at last is best served when they are satisfied with the cost as well as the service. It is with this thought in mind that I will recommend * * * the question of places, details, etc., in giving the public opportunity to express themselves on this question." He said the different companies involved will be given an opportunity to be heard.

Chairman Perry said he would recommend that hearings be held in Atlanta, Augusta, Savannah, Macon, Waycross, Valdosta, Rome and Columbus.

Jule W. Felton, of Monticuma, member of the commission, announced Saturday that a resolution will be introduced at the next meeting of the commission to investigate "the propriety of continuing the service charge on consumers of electricity."

TEACHERS COLLEGE IS TAXED TO LIMIT IN GRADING HOGS

MORE THAN FOUR HUNDRED STUDENTS ENROLLED DURING FIRST WEEK OF TERM.

With an enrollment of 422 during the first week, South Georgia Teachers College is now well under way in what promises to be by far the biggest year's work in its history.

Formal welcoming exercises were held at the college last Friday evening, when the Sunkin Garden on the campus was a scene of gaiety and beauty. With the members of the faculty and representatives from Statesboro's civic life in the receiving line, the 400-odd students passed through the line for a campus hand-clasp. Following these preliminary light refreshments were served. The program of the evening was enriched by a vocal rendition by Mrs. B. L. Smith and a number of readings by Mrs. Jesse O. Johnston, both of whom are members of the faculty.

President Guy Wells announced at the conclusion that the enrollment on that date was approximately one hundred in excess of the enrollment at the outset of the last fall term, with a large number of applicants unable to procure accommodations. He explained that the accommodations being provided among the people of Statesboro and that still other rooms are being temporarily fitted up for use in the dormitories and campus quarters. Class room space, also, he said is at a premium because of the overcrowded condition.

Congratulating the school upon its growing popularity, he declared that the personnel of the student body was the finest that the college has ever known. Certainly, if one may judge from the appearance of the young people on the campus at the opening reception, the South Georgia Teachers College is an institution of which to be proud.

ROOSEVELT GIVES SIX RELIEF PLANS

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE SAYS THREE G. O. P. ADMINISTRATIONS WERE FAILURES.

Topeka, Kas., Sept. 14.—Declaring that the Harding, Coolidge and Hoover Republican administrations "failed utterly to understand the problem as a national whole, or to plan for its relief," Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, speaking today in the heart of the "farm belt," proposed a six-fold relief plan. He called for a "definite policy of giving credit to the farmer who has lost his crop." The Democratic presidential nominee spoke from the steps of the state capitol, where a crowd of 5,000 people gathered to hear him.

President Charles Curtis accepted the nomination for a retention of his office. Near at hand, as he enunciated his agricultural doctrine, said Mr. Roosevelt's "teammate," Speaker John N. Garner of Texas, the Democratic vice-presidential pick. Mr. Roosevelt's speech here was the first prepared address of his $9,000-mile swing through the West.

Leading up to his six-point plan, the Democratic nominee declared: "I want now to state what seems to me the specifications upon which most of the reasonable leaders of agriculture have agreed, and to express here and now my wholehearted accord with these specifications."

The specifications were: "First—The plant must provide for the producer of staple surplus commodities, such as wheat, cotton, corn (in the form of hogs), and tobacco, a tariff benefit over world prices which is equivalent to the benefit given by the tariff to industrial products. This differential benefit must be applied that the increase in farm income, purchasing and debt paying power will not stimulate further production."

"Second—The plan must finance itself. Agriculture has at no time sought and does not now seek such access to the public treasury as was provided by the tariff and costly attempts at price stabilization by the Federal Farm Board. It seeks only equality of opportunity with tariff-protected industry."

"Third—It must make use of any mechanism which would make for our European customers to retaliate on the grounds of dumping. It must be based upon making the tariff effective and direct in its operation."

"Fourth—It must make use of existing agencies and so far as possible be decentralized in its administration so that the chief responsibility for its operation will rest with the locality rather than with newly created bureaucratic machinery in Washington."

"Fifth—It must operate as nearly as possible on a co-operative basis and its effect must be to enhance and strengthen the co-operative movement. It should, moreover, be constituted so that it can be withdrawn whenever the emergency has passed, and normal foreign markets have been re-established."

"Sixth—The plan must not be coercive. The plan should not be put into operation unless it has the support of a reasonable majority of the producers of the exportable commodity to which it is to apply. It must be so organized that the beneficiaries will go to the man who participates."

For the permanent adjustment of agriculture, Roosevelt suggested a reorganization of the Department of Agriculture, a "planned use of the land," and "national leadership in the reduction and more equitable distribution of taxes."

The Democratic standard bearer said the present administration and the two previous administrations, in all of which the president was an important member, failed utterly to understand the farm problem as a national whole, or to plan for its relief. He added, "they destroyed the foreign markets for our exportable farm surplus, beginning with the Fordney-McCumber tariff, and ending with the Grundy tariff, thus violating the simplest principles of international trade, and forcing the inevitable retaliation of foreign countries."

Roosevelt declared "in 1928, in his acceptance speech, Mr. Hoover said: 'An adequate tariff, the foundation of farm relief.' He and his supporters insisted in 1928 that we were importing $3,800,000 of farm products and that an adequate tariff laid on these would be sufficient for the relief of agriculture. It was a ghastly fraud. The truth is that our farmers do not produce the items proposed to be protected by a tariff—they consume them. The remedy was not to raise his selling price, but to raise his cost of living."

FIRE DAMAGE HAS MARKED DECREASE

MORE THAN 87 PER CENT OF ACREAGE BURNED WAS IN UNPROTECTED AREAS.

First fires in the United States were slightly less prevalent in 1931 than in 1930, according to the United States Forest Service's annual summary of reports and estimates from the state co-operating with the federal government in forest fire control. Fires last year numbered 186,894; in 1930, 190,980 were reported. Area burned over decreased by 688,150 acres—from 52,266,460 acres in 1930 to 51,578,310 in 1931.

An important gain of the year was in holding forest fires in the most dangerous size in protected areas in the Northwestern, Middle Atlantic, Southeastern and Gulf States. The average area per fire in all protected areas, however, was 103 acres, somewhat larger than usual.

Areas in which forest fires under some form of organized fire protection aggregated 40,449,510 acres last year, about two-thirds of the total acreage, needing protection. On these areas, 61,854 fires burned 6,378,340 acres in 1931. Of the total area of 45,190,170 acres or more than 87 per cent, was on unprotected land.

Incendiarism was responsible for 24.9 per cent of the protected area burned last year, in contrast to an annual average of 17.1 per cent for the 1926-30 period. Incendiarism in 1931 numbered 16,427 fires, an average of 7,638 for the five-year period—an increase of 101 per cent. Sharp increases in incendiarism were noted in the Southeastern, Gulf, Central and Pacific States, although state, federal and municipal efforts controlled the situation better in the latter part of the season.

Carelessness of campers and smokers took a heavy toll. In the protected areas alone, the year showed a record of 5,236 campers' fires, against a five-year average of 3,926, or an increase of approximately 50 per cent. Forest fires from smokers in protected areas also increased, with 14,488 against a five-year average of 9,408.

Set against these records of human carelessness and wrongdoing are the records of one-fourth of the world's fires, one-third in lightning fires, and more than one-tenth in lightning fires. Debris-burning fires and fires from miscellaneous and unknown causes increased.

The Forest Service summary shows that forest fire damaged protected areas to the extent of approximately $17,018,100 in 1931. The damage to unprotected areas, according to incomplete estimates, was placed at $50,099,060, making a total forest fire damage of more than $67,000,000 for the year, taking into account only tangible losses and not including such losses as scenic values, wild life, watershed values, etc.

In addition to protecting the national forests, the federal government is now co-operating, under the Clarke-McNary law, in the protection of some 200,000,000 acres of state and privately owned lands. The money used for co-operative protection of state and privately owned lands in 1931 amounted to $7,215,885. Of this amount, the states furnished $3,899,305; private owners, $1,844,638; and the federal government, $1,572,942.

Altogether, 617,280,490 acres in the United States need fire protection, the Forest Service estimates. About 35 per cent of this area is without any organized protection.

Young Moppy Freed From Gypsy Bondage

Martinez, Cal., Sept. 17.—Deputy sheriffs guarded against possible gypsy tribal reprisals here today as a result of the freeing of an 18-year-old moped yesterday from a man who allegedly bought her for $1,500. The young woman, Mrs. Rachel Ulrich Zeko, was advised by Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie that she might go where she pleased after Mrs. Zeko and her mother, Mrs. Christine Ulrich, told the court she was kidnapped from her home in Richmond, Ind., two years ago and sold twice into gypsy marriage.

Cries of protest at the decision from nearly 150 gypsies in the courtroom caused Judge McKenzie to subjoin officers. George V. Robinson, of Chicago, drew the heaviest fire possible when arraigned for the hundredth time for drunkenness. His stabilization operations, Mr. Roosevelt said "farm board speculative operations must and shall come to an end." He added "the best effort resulted in squandering hundreds of millions of the taxpayers' money."

BY THE WAY

(By EDNA PARRISH ROUSSEAU)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 17, 1932.—The coming congress will be the most "lame-duck" congress in history judging by the reports filtering in from the hustings. The voters have decided in many cases to let members of congress stay at home during the most two years and let new men take their places and see what they can do for them.

Some weeks back John Hopkins University, of Baltimore, gratuitously and unsolicited offered their services to members of congress in an examination to determine the mental capacity of these individuals. It is very obvious that this most worthy university would much better serve the nation as a whole in the matter of medical science if they extended this courtesy to the penal institutions of the country, due to the fact that members of congress are reluctant to avail themselves of this generosity.

Women politicians are finding life during these pre-election times a bit wearing. Some take the heckling with good grace. It is a part of the game with them. Others are not so sportsmanlike. Of all who are actively engaged in speaking today, Dolly Ganna is perhaps the most ardent campaigner. She fully enjoys oscillating about over the country as official spokesmen to groups of Republican women. But the exertion is taking its toll. Dolly is reported to be losing in weight.

Speaker Garner, while running for vice-president on the Democratic ticket, is also running for the house of representatives, a privilege that is permitted under the electoral law of Texas. Soon after his nomination as vice-president the speaker received a telegram from his perennial Republican opponent for congress in Texas congratulating him on his vice-presidential nomination and challenging him to demonstrate his confidence in the success of the Roosevelt-Garner ticket by not running for congress. Garner is too shrewd a politician to permit himself to be impaled on the two horns of the dilemma, and so he ignored the challenge.

That lending is easier than raising money is proved by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the largest banking institution in the world, organized by an act of congress last February. Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills reports that from February 2nd to June 30th the corporation authorized 5,084 separate loans to 4,196 institutions. The loans amounted to $1,038,848,498. Of that sum $448,000,000 went to 3,000 banks and trust companies. The bank in Chicago of General Charles G. Dawes, the first president of the R. F. C., received a loan of $80,000,000 soon after the General's resignation from the corporation.

Interested spectators have it that the effervescent Senator Huey Long in taking the stump in Arkansas at the election of Mrs. Hattie Caraway for the senate, denounced the role of "green maker" with an ulterior motive. As there was no special reason for Long's invasion of Arkansas, it is understood that his real purpose was to weaken Senator Robinson's hold on the Arkansas electorate by repeating the attacks which he made against Robinson on the senate floor. Long resigned all the committee assignments given him by Robinson, who is the Democratic floor leader, then followed that action with a number of vitriolic speeches against Robinson and his leadership. The feud between the two senators promises to produce many clashes in the next session.

An interesting addition has been made to Carnegie's Gallery of Birds. The red-footed booby species which are found in Central America are now included in their collection. Osmert Salvin, a noted English ornithologist, some seventy years ago made an expedition to the British Honduras, and has given us an interesting description of the nesting colony of birds, of which he says there were several thousand: "The name 'booby' is most appropriate; I never saw a bird with less idea of getting out of one's way or caring less for what one did. Walking about under trees was nothing; they hardly combed down to look down; nor when we stirred them up while taking a siesta, or pulled their tails, poked them out of their nests, and fought with them for eggs, and bullied them in every way did we succeed in getting up any sort of excitement in the colony. They took everything with the greatest indifference, with a complacent, grave expression that was laughable to watch."

Expeditious to these parts during recent years report that the boobies are still inhabiting the island, although decreasing in number, due perhaps to their innate stupidity which make them an easy prey to enemy invaders.

SMALL PECAN CROP IS NOW FORECAST

MARKET IS DEMORALIZED WITH PRICES BELOW ACTUAL COST OF PRODUCTION.

Conditions existing in the paper-shell pecan industry last fall were very unsatisfactory not only to growers but to the trade as well. The paper-shell pecan crop was approximately 20,000,000 pounds, the largest in history, and markets were demoralized mainly by the unparalleled business depression with the result that pecan prices went down below cost of production for the first time in the history of the industry.

For several months this year field men for the National Pecan Growers Exchange have been out in the different sections among members and growers generally making a careful survey of crop conditions. These, together with reports of key men in the industry all over the pecan producing area, early convinced exchange officials with fifteen years experience in this work, that this year's crop would not exceed 25 per cent of 1931. Later reports which are coming in all the time show a decrease and indicate that the 1932 paper-shell crop for the whole country will be under 20 per cent of last year's total and most likely not over 15 per cent. In the Southwest Georgia, which is the heaviest producing area, the crop will be not over 5 per cent of last year's yield, with many orchards not having enough nuts to pay for gathering. This condition is true throughout this section.

Speculators and independent buyers are being put out of information to the effect that the paper-shell crop will be approximately 40 per cent of last year's crop, their purpose evidently being to create the impression that the crop is much larger than it really is.

Senator Swanson, of Virginia, who was a member of the American disarmament delegation is optimistic of the eventual outcome of the negotiations to reduce armaments and human suffering. To him Europe looks like an armed camp with war alarms and peace conferences following each other in continuous succession. America has much to be thankful for, he said emphatically.

Countless groups of visitors to the national capital annually are inclined to ask the origin of the restoration of the Mount Vernon estates. The preservation of this national shrine was made possible through the untiring efforts of the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association, an organization consisting of members from various sections of the country. Since its origin the following ladies from Georgia have served as members of the organization: Mrs. Charles E. Eve, 1858 to 1889; Mrs. George Page Wilder, 1891 to 1914.

Mrs. Jefferson Randolph Anderson, Lafayette Square, Savannah, Ga., 1919 to the present.

The question of the Bonus Expeditionary Force is still a vital one. It will be for a long time. Divided sentiment surges around this move. Those who have at one time or another experienced the pangs of hunger, homelessness and general deprivation view the actions of the A. E. F. with a deep degree of sympathy. At the time of their encampment in Washington generous contributions poured in from various sources. An orderly but ragged remnant of these veterans now seek shelter on a little strip of river land in New York which can be seen from fashionable Riverside Drive. City authorities are being urged to "show them out." But in this great metropolis there are those who would befriend them. One sympathizer pleads that "Instead of feeling shame that our own war veterans are forced to live like that, some people want to kick them out and take away the little they have. They will sit tight in their warm homes this winter, not caring where these men are—or if they are."

Two Washington newspaper correspondents, Tucker and Berkeley, have just put out a book entitled "Sons of the Wild Jackass." It speaks of 12 senators and one representative, La Guardia, of New York, cataloging them as the best of the lot in congress in ability, independence and usefulness. They are otherwise known as "Progressives" of whom there is not one from the South. The name of the book was taken from a remark of Senator Moses of New Hampshire in answer to a demand from a newspaperman to say something about the "progressives." Very few observers in Washington will agree with the authors that the "Progressives" represent the brains of congress. Who are awed by Senators Brookhart, Nye, Cutting and Shipstead anyway?

.. Nobody's Business ..

(By GEE MCGEE, Anderson, S. C.)

MIKE EXPLAINS EVERYTHING... hereby offer my apologies to Mrs. Artie Smith whose husband died nearly 4 weeks ago, but he never did get in the paper, and she blames me, as I am the first of the rock news. I am sorry that he passed out and was sent mentioned to the public at large. I forgot it, but will be more careful the next time.

...Artie was a fine husband and a faithful father to 9 or 10 children; I have forgot which, but was a warm member of reboher and before he was put in the church planner he was deacon and always took up the collection, but he resigned from that office and never came back. He was again, he hated mechanical music in a church, he called singing in the choir after that.

...he left an insurance of 10003 and she put 6753 of it in a nice sedan and she still has some of it left, and if it holds out, she will no doubt pay the bill of the funeral expenses if they find he was not a w. o. w. ally, she thinks he was as he stayed out late one Thursday night and some Tuesday night, he was an emblem of it till the day of his death, but the secker Terry says he thinks he lapsed it.

...Artie's 2 oldest sons, Joe and Bud, have already had a fight about who would be the ad-ministrator, and the former knocked the latter down, the other boys says that if things get much worse they almost wish their old man had not died, they think there is an equity in the farm which the federal land bank comes first of with a mortgage, they have sent for his 2 mules and reposed them in the liberty stable, but the family is not worried about mules amosforth.

...none of the boys and girls have ever amounted to anything except jule: he owns a filling station, one of the girls married very well, but it turned out he was getting only 753 a month instead of 763 a week as her mother understood before she consented to same, he lost that position in June and they are staying with his father who is a widower, she does the cooking.

...Artie Smith will be missed by all concerned, he always took a leading part in cleaning off the graveyard at his church, and he was likewise nice about setting up with dead corpses. He was kind to the poor: if he had only 2 loafs of bread, he would gladly sell one to the hungry laborer for cash, Mr. Editor, please print this verbatim, as she expects me to fix him up nice.

LOVE IS BLIND BUT NOT DUMB... I went to a picture show last night. There wasn't anything unusual about that. I go nearly every time I get hold to a dime, and that's nearly once every month. Our picture shows take half of the time to explain what they are going to exploit from now on.

...After they got tr telling us on the screen what picture they would have Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, next week, week after next, week after that, and several more weeks the main feature began.

...This was a talking picture, but the couple in front of me did all of the talking. They were in love. Anybody could tell that from the way they leaned on one another. Every little while she'd look at him and grin like a screech owl and say, "Joe, your hand is as cool." And he'd say, "That means a hot heart home."

...This was the first couple I ever saw that could court, eat gobers, enjoy a picture, hug, chew gum, bump heads, and look at a picture at the same time. He ran a filling station: I could tell by the gasoline. She clerked in a store, she had 2 lipsticks with her. Her head was so back it looked like a bush. He had his head massed up too. He was a "hot" type boy.

...They talked about the picture occasionally, but they did not seem to understand it very well. Every time the hero would kiss the hero, they would lean harder and harder against one another. They sat like this occasionally (o-o), but most of the time they sat like this (oo). They couldn't discern the difference between pants and fun, they both laughed at the wrong times.

...A picture house ain't a very good place to make love. This boy and that girl had the idea that there was something in the theatre except them, the other 750 souls were not of a single thought...whose hearts beat as one...like their souls and hearts were beating. They had some

Cut Hours, Not Pay, Is Plea of Labor

New York, Sept. 16.—Urging adoption of a shorter working week, but without commensurate wage cuts, as a solution of unemployment, A. E. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, tonight urged that the government employ emergency powers to that end.

Dr. Florence Rena Sabin of New York won the $5,000 annual achievement award offered by the Pictorial Review. She is a member of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

ASSAULTS OF WETS CALLED A FAILURE

DRY LEADER DECLARES PRESIDENT LAW IS STANDING FIRM UNDER STRONG FIRE.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, tonight declared the wet assault upon the Eighteenth Amendment has failed, predicted the dry laws would not be altered at the short session of congress or by the one to be elected this fall.

This conclusion, McBride said, is based on the failure of the anti-prohibitionists to defeat or replace a sufficient number of congressmen who voted against the Beck-Lincoln re-submission resolution at the last session of congress.

"With only three primaries remaining," he observed, "it now appears certain that the congress to be elected this fall will not submit a resolution to modify or repeal the Eighteenth Amendment."

The head of the dry organization admitted the results of the recent election in Maine was a victory for the liquor forces but explained it indicated a Democratic rather than a wet trend. He pointed out that Representative Beedy, the only dry candidate who aggressively supported prohibition in his campaign, as victorious in the First district which "is considered the wettest district in the state."

In comparison with the Maine results, McBride called attention to the fact that in Michigan every dry congressman up for re-nomination won by increased majorities and the dry candidate for governor won by a 130,000 vote plurality.

The dry leader found considerable comfort too in the victory of Senator Wesley Jones, author of the "five-and-ten" law, in the state of Washington. Anti-prohibition forces had waged an active battle against him. In the same state Representative Ralph Hore, described by McBride as "one of the most outspoken wets in the present congress," was defeated.

"It has been demonstrated," said McBride, "that unqualified support of prohibition is the best politics for dry candidates, while 'wobblers' seldom win."

A trip through Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania revealed to him, McBride declared, that drys are aroused and are concentrating on the election of candidates for congress on record against modification or repeal. He said the usual number of prohibitionists would be sent to congress by Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

The three remaining primaries are to be held in Wisconsin, New York and Massachusetts on September 20. In the first two states two senators, John Blaine, a Republican, and Robert Wagner, a Democrat, are up for re-nomination. Both are anti-prohibitionists.

Although the wet forces have won a few congressional victories, a review of past votes on prohibition here indicated strong in the primaries to alter the dry law.

In the senate, the Bingham 4 per cent beer bill was defeated 60 to 23; the Tieding 2.75 per cent beer bill was defeated 61 to 24 and the Bingham 2.75 per cent beer bill lost by a vote of 25 to 55. In the house the Beck-Lincoln re-submission resolution only 187 of the 290 votes needed to pass it.

German Steamers Being Used More

Berlin, Sept. 17.—Although shipping among the trades is his gravely by the depression, German shipping concerns derive some consolation from the fact that the number of passengers using German ships between the United States and Germany is increasing as compared with last year. Thus the Hamburg-America line published statistics showing that the concern's liners carried 16,000 passengers between May and July, 1932, exceeding last year's number of passengers by 4,100.

Previously to her graduation Miss Rountree studied music in New York City and abroad. She sang in the opera given at the University of Georgia this summer with Quenna Mario and because of her talent has been invited to sing with the celebrated musician the coming season in New York.

The program for this evening will begin at 8 o'clock and consists of the following numbers:

This Quenna Mario's first meeting with Miss Rountree and she was so impressed with the beauty of her voice and stage presence and interpretation in acting of the parts assigned to her, that she decided to take her under supervision. In doing so, she complimented Miss Rountree by saying she had the most beautiful voice that she had heard in the South and that she had the ability to set the part as it should be. The summer session of music at the University of Georgia this year has again been held under the supervision of Professor Granberry, head of the Granberry School of Music in New York City. He paid Miss Rountree a marked compliment by saying that in his judgment she had voice that was capable of being developed into that of the greatest singer in the world, that she had every equipment as a dramatic soprano that Ponselle of Gadsak had and that there was no reason why she should not go to the very top of the ladder of music. Miss Rountree has been a student at Agnes Scott College, where she was a member of the college choir and was a member of the college choir and was a member of the college choir and was a member of the college choir.

PRIZES AWARDED MONDAY EVENING

The eight prizes consisting of two tickets each to the picture show, given by Avertitt Brothers Auto Company to the national guardsmen making the high scores on platoon drill examination last Monday evening, were won by the following: Battery "A," Sergeant Ralph L. Rigdon, Private First Class Johnnie W. Beasley; Privates Albert Dean, Robert B. Shell, Luther J. Shuman; Headquarters Detachment, Private First Class John S. Rushing; Medical Detachment, Private First Class Oscar C. Franklin; Private Dan E. Riggs.

Sergeant Rigdon and Corporal Bragg tied on the examination for first place for the non-commissioned officer prize so it was necessary to give them another examination, in which Sergeant Rigdon was the winner. Taking first place is getting to be a habit with Sergeant Rigdon but some of the non-commissioned officers are promising to dethrone him next week on the examination of the caliber 30 rifle.

An excellent opportunity exists for some of the men who have not yet won prizes to take the lead next week. All they will have to do is to learn everything on the mimeographed sheet handed out at the last drill and then come to the army and learn the names of the five parts of the rifle from the large chart which is posted in the drill hall, or study Training Regulations 320-10. The prizes will be given by Jake Fine, Inc., clothing store. These prizes are worth putting forth some effort to win as there are some mighty nice things at Jake Fine's to select from.

ICE MAKERS TO AID BULLOCH FARMERS

MEETING IN STATESBORO NEXT WEDNESDAY WILL GIVE HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS.

(By M. D. GLEASON, Atlanta Central World Fair Committee.)

There will be a meeting held in Statesboro, Ga., on October 5th, that will undoubtedly be of far-reaching importance to all the people of Georgia and adjoining states. The occasion will be the annual gathering of the meat-curing division of the Georgia Ice Manufacturers' Association.

The importance of this Statesboro meeting lies in the fact that it is the third meeting of this body, and the reports of work done by the less than 100 men during the past year has been an amazingly good that it behooves every man that is now raising one or more hogs to bend all efforts to be there in person or by reliable representative.

At this meeting, which will be devoted to any enterprise, but every minute taken up with highly instructive addresses upon this new government and state-endorsed and encouraged way of saving every pound of Southern-raised meat. The real purpose is to get first-hand information into the small tenant farmer's hands. Meat will be cut up on the grounds at the auditorium (showing proper method before refrigerating), and everyone there will be asked to encourage or assist in promoting a similar school of instruction back home in his own community.

The facts will be brought out at this meeting that before the ice men lent an active hand in the curing of meats the farmers in this climate simply took a very poor gamble if they endeavored to raise hogs for profit. If it was not for the fact that their hogs sidestepped the deadly cholera, worms and a dozen more hog diseases and attained 200 pounds, or the best killing weight, and then the farmer decried it was killing time, he was not altogether the judge to his date as this date fixing with out the aid of the curing plants is set when Mother Nature sends a few hours or days of cool or cold weather.

The difference in the cost of the keep of a hog after the time a farmer would like to kill the hog and the time he can do so in this uncertain climate, quickly mounts up in a hog over 200 pounds, and where there might have been a profit at that weight, the profits are soon eaten up in the longer time feeding, for hogs over that weight grow heavier in slower proportion to the feed consumed and bring less on the average per pound weight.

The advantage of these meat-curing departments of ice plants lies in the fact that a farmer can kill his meat at any time he pleases and when he turns it over to them, it will be ready to eat in 10 days afterwards, it is saleable on any market or ready

CONFERENCE HERE OF LOCAL LEADERS

RED CROSS ORGANIZATIONS OF SOUTHEAST GEORGIA TO DINE HERE TUESDAY.

A conference of Red Cross workers for the southeastern division of Georgia will be held at Statesboro next Tuesday. Luncheon will be served to the seventy-five or more guests at the Woman's Club room at 1 o'clock. The sessions will be held at the Methodist church beginning at 10 o'clock, and representatives from each of the counties of Southeast Georgia are expected to be present.

Besides these out-of-town representatives, the Red Cross workers of the county are not only invited but urged to attend. Especially are those invited who have been associated with the distribution of flour and other charity through the various school organizations. At this conference there will be a thorough discussion of plans for the forthcoming Red Cross drive in the county and the best methods will be outlined.

The chief address of the conference will be by Hon. William Carl Hunt, Assistant Manager, Eastern Area, American National Red Cross, an area, who has been with the Red Cross for the past twelve years. He comes from the head office with a complete knowledge of the plans and purposes of the Red Cross and his address will be an inspiration to those who have been most. Requirements of the state banking department have been complied with and assistance is promised under certain reasonable conditions. Those conditions can only be met by the stockholders, and they alone are to decide whether the bank will open or remain closed.

Notices are being mailed to the stockholders calling for the meeting on October 8th. In the meantime certain other necessary work is being done by the directors. The present is the most crucial moment in the history of all the bank's efforts to get back on its feet. The outcome of the meeting of stockholders will have large effect upon the community as well as upon the final loss or gain of the stockholders and creditors of the bank. A large majority of the stockholders have heretofore voted to re-open the bank. It only remains necessary now for them to ratify that vote by final action.

Vocational Work at Brooklet School

Brooklet, Ga., Sept. 26.—The vocational work of the Brooklet High School, both the boys' agriculture work and the girls' food and clothing work, has been an asset to the curriculum here ever since it was placed in the school. Wright Held for Killing Williams

After a five-day search and chase, county officers arrested Willie Wright, colored, in a swamp near Nevils Thursday afternoon. He was lodged in the county jail here and charged with the murder of Quincy Williams, according to eyewitnesses Saturday night, September 17th.

Wright, Williams and others were playing cards in the camp of the Pace still, a regular Saturday night. A dispute arose between Wright and Williams. Wright left the game and soon returned with a shotgun and when within a few feet of Williams, is alleged to have shot the top of Williams' head off, causing instant death. Wright fled into the woods. It is believed that his friend furnished him food during the past five days. After searching five days county officers captured Wright in a swamp near the place of the killing.

TAKE FINAL STEPS START SEA ISLAND

STOCKHOLDERS ARE CALLED TO MEET ON SATURDAY OF NEXT WEEK TO TAKE ACTION

Whether the Sea Island Bank will re-open or remain in liquidation is to be decided at a meeting of the stockholders called for Saturday of next week, October 8th, which meeting will be held in the Woman's Club room in the bank building.

At this meeting there will be submitted a definite proposition which will call for an answer "yes" or "no" to the question of opening.

Since the bank closed in December of last year—approximately ten months ago—the board of directors have been working on plans which would make possible the re-opening for business. Every obstacle except the state banking department has been met. Requirements of the state banking department have been complied with and assistance is promised under certain reasonable conditions. Those conditions can only be met by the stockholders, and they alone are to decide whether the bank will open or remain closed.

Notices are being mailed to the stockholders calling for the meeting on October 8th. In the meantime certain other necessary work is being done by the directors. ALLEN ENDS LIFE BY PISTOL ROUTE

Bill Allen, aged 35 years, son of the late J. A. Allen, ended his life about 7 o'clock Monday evening at the home of C. W. Hodges, five miles west of Statesboro, by shooting his brains out with a pistol.

A note scribbled in pencil conveyed this message: Good-bye to you all; I hope you will all go to heaven; I believe I am going to the other place. No reasons for his act of self-destruction was given.

Young Allen had been in charge of the estate of his father since his death following an automobile accident in 1928. He was married to a woman named Mary. He was survived by three sisters, but no brothers. The report that he had married during the past few days is said to be a mistake.
